Horst Has Memorable MLB Debut For Cincy On Saturday

Posted: May 29, 2011

ATLANTA, Ga. - Just mere hours after officially joining the Cincinnati Reds active roster, former Armstrong Atlantic State University pitcher Jeremy Horst made his major league debut against the Atlanta Braves on Saturday evening at Turner Field - and it was quite a memorable one.

Entering the game with the score tied 5-5 in the fourth inning, Horst immediately struck out Jordan Schafer, then one out later, struck out Chipper Jones to work a 1-2-3 first inning of major league work.

It was the top half of the fifth that made things more memorable for the former Pirate, however, as Horst came to the plate and stroked an RBI single through the right side for a hit in his first major league at-bat, giving the Reds a 6-5 lead.

In the bottom half of the fifth inning, Horst fell victim to All-Star catcher Brian McCann, who hit a solo home run off of him to tie the game back up at 6.

Horst was relieved in the sixth inning with a runner on third and two out, giving him the impressive line of 2 2/3 innings pitched and two hits given up, striking out four.
